It all began in class 6: During an ordinary geography lesson in German our teacher Mrs Kirschner tried to explain to us what geography in English is like. So, when I chose the subject I already knew a little of what to expect. From class 7 to 9 we went through the various topics. Some of them were really funny. If we did not understand something, our teacher explained it to us in English.

I am glad that I chose Bilingual because we only talked English and improved our ability to speak in English. This will help us in our final exam in English. If I had to I would chose it again.

In Class 6 we had to decide whether we would take geography in English or in German. I thought that it would be a good experience if we had geography in English. So one year later we began to speak English in geography quite easily. I think it’s more fun than in German, but there are sometimes words I do not know and I have to work with them more accurately so that I can understand the topic. Up to ninth class, we have had geography in English and I don’t think that it was bad that we chose it. The bad side about it is that every second week, we have two afternoon lessons and that’s always hard. I often can’t follow the lesson as well as in the morning.

In geography we often have fun because we have more time, so we can go into the internet and watch videos.
